

Student Work and Photo Release

I understand that student work (e.g. creative writing, visual arts) and pictures of students may occasionally appear in school or district publications or web sites. Parental permission is required for a student's picture to appear on a website or for his/her work to be identified in a district publication or website. The school district limits access to individual buildings by outside photographers, but sometimes has no control over news media or other entities that may publish a picture of a named or unnamed student.

I grant consent to identify a picture of my student by full name or publish his/her work in any school or district sponsored publication or web site. I may revoke this consent at any time by notifying the building principal in writing.
